

We made it to Friday, and all in one piece! Everyone deserves a well earned applause and rest. The children and ourselves are completely exhausted after a week of activities, but it was most definitely worth it. From eating lunch in the dark depths of a mine to standing on top of a mountain, it feels like we have done it all this week. As such, we thought it best to have a bit of a relax day today. Today, all 32 of us went to the beach!

It started off with some lovely views of the sea as we walked down to the beach area and prepared ourselves for the activities to come. Here are some of the hits

Wading through the sea across to an island in the middle of the water, and clambering up the rocks to find a salt bowl.

Some children took part in crab hunting, and we found a few of different sized creatures.

Wheelbarrow races between Mr Carey, Mr Marks and Mr Cole, with shout outs to our various “engines”.

Burying each other in the sand, a lot, including Mr Cole getting some flowing seaweed locks.

And the best part of all, Ice cream by the sea, courtesy of Mr Marks!

And, of course, general silliness of children at the seaside.

Once we were on our way back to camp, we navigated back with some rock climbing.

Once we got back...

We enjoyed a final party in the common room, with singing, dancing, games and pop.

And our final certificates.

We, the staff, have had an amazing week, and the children have had a great time too. But I think they would agree with me when I say we all already for our own beds and a decent nights sleep. It has been a pleasure, and we have got through a week of no major injuries, no lost children and lots of smiles. Seems like a win to me.

Our current plan is to depart at 10AM, returning for 3:30PM in Reading, and if our first journey was anything to go by then we should be there on time, even more so this time due to 30 very sleepy children.

Thank you for your support, and we hope your children have had as much fun as we have.
